Welcome to Oxford, Mississippi — where Southern tradition meets SEC party culture. We pulled up to the Kappa Sigma house at 10:30 PM on a Friday night. The house was lit up with orange and white lights, and the music was loud. We walked through the front door and were greeted by a group of guys who were sitting on the couch, watching TV. They were all wearing Kappa Sigma shirts and had a relaxed, friendly demeanor. We asked them about the house and the fraternity, and they gave us a tour. The house was clean and well-maintained, with a large living room and a kitchen. We saw a lot of party supplies and decorations, and the guys showed us their collection of SEC merchandise. They were all really nice and seemed to be having a good time. We asked them about the fraternity and they told us that it was a really cool organization with a long history. They also mentioned that they were going to have a party that night, which was exciting. We asked them to reflect on their time at Ole Miss and they all gave us some really interesting answers. They talked about the challenges they faced, the friendships they made, and the memories they created. It was a really great experience and we all had a lot of fun. We asked four chapter presidents to reflect on their time
